Lighting the Christ Candle:

As the people of Israel walked in the desert, they followed the pillar of cloud by day, and the pillar of fire by night;
as we journey this Lenten path, to Jerusalem, the cross, and beyond,

Holy Communion

We live in a world in which we often feel like strangers, wandering from place to place, lurching from event to event, not sure if we will ever belong anywhere.
And then we come to the Table, and in the mystery of bread and wine,
the clouds clear away,
the sun comes out,
and we are, and know ourselves to be, at home.
You are welcome here.
Come, for all is ready.

Communion Hymn: All Who Hunger

[VU 460 Vs 1]

Communion Prayer

Great is your tenderness, God, for all that you have made.
For you are good, and all that you have made is good.
Kindness and love you show us in measure beyond abundance.
And yet, loving God, in spite of your generosity, we often feel alienated from you, away from our truest selves, away from you.
And, by your grace,
we find you waiting for us, out looking for us.
Glimmers of home we see, in the morning sun chasing away the darkness of the night, in the sliver of the moon whose light reflects on a snowy field, in a crumb of bread on a plate and a lingering taste of wine on our lips.
And once more we are at home, safe with you, for though the world is often puzzling, and our souls are often distracted by our living, you come to us in those very distractions, and we find in you a hope beyond all we can see.
As we begin this Lenten journey, Loving God, may we be reminded of your faithfulness to us in the past, your invitation to us in the present, your promise to us for the future.
As we come to taste the gifts of your earth so we also may know the promise of the gift of your eternity.

Receiving Communion

Prayer after Communion

The generosity of your gifts here on earth, O God, hint at your even greater goodness at the heavenly banquet table. We bless you for these signs of your kindness in this world, and for the invitation they offer us to welcome others, as in love, you have welcomed us. Bless us in our Lenten journey. Amen.
